The President's View of the Situation—Why Douglass Wasn't Asked to Dinner

WASHINGTON August 15 —This afternoon the President in conversation with friends on political topics expressed himself satisfied with the situation Some one asked about the alleged slight to Fred Douglass He replied that if Douglass did not complain because he was not invited by him to dinner he did not see why Sumner should exhibit so much anxiety if not indignation upon the subject. The simple fact was the San Domingo Commissioners with their Secretary, having called to submit their report, he invited them to dine with him Douglass not being with them he did not at the time think of him nor of the others who accompanied the expedition and if Siegel and Douglas had been with the Commissioners they would have been included in the invitation to dinner It was informal and private having no official significance whatever The President expressed surprise that so much should be said about an immaterial subject,—one that merely concerned his own household

A dispatch from Greenboro North Carolina August 11, gives this

Judge Settle addressed a Republican mass meeting here last evening He claimed that they were celebrating the greatest political victory ever achieved in the State in view that the party with no name had declared that as went North Carolina in August so would go the Union election in November The nameless party had made a better fight than it would ever be able to make again It fought however under a black flag observing none of the rules of honorable warfare It was aided by Tammany money and emissaries skilled in all the many [illegible] for the fraudulent registration of book ballot boxes and election returns Yet in spite of all the Republicans had elected Caldwell by [illegible] 000 majority The Executive Department of the State would therefore be in the hands of honest men for the next four years although by gerrymandering the Democrats have elected a majority to the Legislature With regard to himself, he believed that he was fairly elected to Congress but the refusal of the right to vote of hundreds by the Ku Klux and Tammanyites in his District leaves his opponent with a majority Judge Settle claimed that the Republicans had gained over [illegible] 000 votes in the recent election mostly among the white people in the western part of the State

ALBANY, August 16 —A distressing accident occurred at Lebanon, Linn county, last evening, in which a young man by the name of Robert Ralston lost his life It seems that young Ralston had been at work in a harvest field during the day, and went with a friend to a neighboring house to stay all night During the evening the party obtained a jug of whisky, of which they partook rather freely, and a quarrel arose about a game of cards Young Ralston drew a pistol for the purpose, it is supposed, of using it as a club, when one of the other parties seized it with the intention of taking it away In the scuffle for the possession of it, it was discharged, the ball entering the left side of Ralston, immediately under the arm causing almost instant death His only words were, "Send for a doctor," and expired He has a large number of relatives living in and about Lebanon and the family are all well to do and respected citizens

GERMAN EMIGRATION

[Correspondence New York Herald]

BERLIN July 8, 1872

Numerous and exhaustive articles on German emigration to the United States have been published at different intervals in the Herald and have already acquainted its readers with the epidemic like spread of emigration mainly due to the favorable statements and practical invitations—cash remittances or passage certificates—from those fatherlanders who have successfully established themselves on your shores Though it has more than once been stated by statisticians that the loss experienced by the State from this source was enormous and that a shipload of emigrants leaving the country might be compared to the desertion of a fully armed and equipped regiment for the enemy's camp the authorities have heretofore seemed indifferent and abstained from direct interference exercising their control only over agents and contenting themselves in annually publishing the names and pending penalty of those who left regardless of the State's claim upon them for military service The vast increase of emigration this year notwithstanding the happy prophecy to the contrary seems at last to have awakened Government to a realization of its loss and the cue is given to the semi official and conservative press to raise

THE CRY OF ALARM

The [illegible] Cross Gazette fills its columns with doleful accounts from various districts where the populations of villages and hamlets have been decimated if not entirely reduced by the American fever The ultra-patriotic journal had counseled real estate owners to augment the wages of the menials and so encourage them to stay at home "love God and the King and honestly earn their bread" But the land owners reply that the emigration fever rages most among the well to do class of rurals —those who own little farms and cattle—so that the raising of the wages would have no influence in their case One of the landed proprietors in West Prussia writes "In my neighborhood the fever is not yet at its height but every servant and servant maid dreams of nothing but of the fairyland over the waters If emigration continues at the present rate we'll be depopulated in a few years Young men of military ages leave on furlough and of course never return. A stricter control of agents can avail but very little as a large portion of the emigrants never go near the offices" At this answer the Kreuz Zeitung flares into a passion and despairingly cries, Why does not the State levy

AN EMIGRANT TAX?

Let there be a tax of fifty thalers per head for every adult and that will prove a sure means of considerably repressing the present epidemic As for the young men on furlough, they should deposit the money and let their fifty thalers be forfeited unless they return." Inasmuch as this topic is forcing itself upon public attention, writers pro and con, [illegible] up like mushrooms, and each imagines to have discovered the real source of the evil and the adequate means to arrest its course. Blind men! they might as well, under the present circumstances, think of stopping the flow of the Gulf Stream They have first got to think of abolishing the compulsory excessive taxes, the old feudal tithes, the holding of land by privileged classes and military despotism. Nowadays a peasant has to pay a head tax, a land tax, a building tax, a clergy and school tax, fire insurance and "hail insurance" taxes, has to contribute to funds which go to repair church and school buildings, to construct dams and dikes, and in many instances pay several [illegible] rial taxes As for the army service awaiting every young man, it certainly is anything but seductive The diet is miserable, the pay is so insignificant as to require, on the part of privates having no other source of income, the strictest economy to press out even enough to supply themselves with the rotten stone and blacking to keep their arms and boots according to regulation And as for the treatment they receive though they are no longer addressed by their officers in the derisive manner introduced by Frederick the Great, it does not debar them from the traditional privilege of being kicked and cuffed unmercifully There are quite late instances recorded where men have been so brutally abused by officers as to render it necessary to take them at once to the hospital. Should this statement, on returning to this country and being reproduced by the German press, excite the ire of the State Attorney, he might fare as he has just done in a suit against several liberal journals which had published a letter from a soldier containing the following —

MARKS OF HONOR

"Though we have not yet faced the enemy I have already received from my Corporal four marks of honor, and my comrade [illegible] nine—I mean boxes on the ear! But what can I do and what can he do? If we were to complain it would be with us as with another comrade, who, since he complained, [illegible] got out of arrest May our regiment [illegible] enter France where I may earn real marks of honor" By order of the War Department the State Attorney brought suit against these journals and did his best to have them convicted for libelling the army, but, lo and behold, the editors could put their hands upon the very men who had been so abused and furnish irrefutable proof Nothing remained but to pronounce a verdict of "not guilty."

THE STAMPEDE,

The attractions of the naval service [illegible] to be no better, and bitter tears are shed by the Holstein and Schleswig press over the stampede of the youth among the seafaring population of that coast "It is true," says the Eiderstadt Gazette, "our island furnishes the best of sailors, but they lack adequate naval schools, and our boys have no chance to prepare themselves for the required examinations—it takes them years to become [illegible] Hence they rather leave for the United States, where they can become citizens after a residence of five years If we do not adopt another system for the recruitment of our navy it is much to be apprehended that we shall soon lack the material necessary for that branch of the service In similar strains a large number of journals are daily uttering their grief over the

and even Bismarck's organ joins in the mournful complaint, though, in its issue of to-day, it lays the fault on the emigration agents who, it says, allure their credulous victims by fraud and deception, and bring woe and ruin upon families and entire communities It particularly points the finger of scorn at a certain agent (William L. Ro[illegible]) who a man of attractive exterior and winning manners came from the United States with a sort of power of attorney (?) to engage emigrants for unsettled district "Look out for him" says the Norddeutsche Zeitung, "he is not a licensed agent of Germany, and should be denounced by all well disposed parties whom he approaches with his deceptive offers"

ANOTHER CAUTION

The Vossische Zeitung reports that orders have been given to arrest all individuals who persuade people to emigrate All persons not supplied with papers certifying that they are fully entitled to emigrate, that they leave no indigent family behind and that they are not liable to military duty shall be stopped at their own expenses at the shipping ports It further cites the law visiting the evasion of military duty with a penalty of fifty to one thousand thalers and imprisonment of from one month to one year In keeping with these efforts to subdue the "prevailing epidemic," we have parties here who conscientiously maintain that the United States is already overstocked with foreign elements and not prepared to cordially open its door to any more And again, in keeping with this opinion we have to mention the feuilleton articles (which, however we are not prepared to qualify as conscientious), wherein are portrayed, in the most pitiful terms, the sad experience of German families who, after looking over the whole Northwest, especially Chicago, concluded that the country was "too poor" to settle in, and have now returned to their mother soil where they are content to quietly labor praising God and their King

A San Francisco paper says The California and Oregon Railroad was completed to Redding on the 8th inst, and on the 9th the side tracks and turn table were being put down This place is about opposite Shasta, some five miles to one side, and will be the terminus of the road for this season

Absenteeism

One of the gravest charges which the reformers have been able to bring against President Grant is that of absenteeism. During the summer season he often leaves Washington, yet he has never gone so far as to be unable to return at call within twenty-four hours. So much has been said on this subject, and so many diatribes leveled at Grant's conduct, which it pleases some to consider an unpardonable recreancy and neglect of duty, that it may be worth while to show that our earlier Presidents were actually guilty of the crime of absenteeism to a far greater extent than Grant is. A writer in the New York Times draws from historical records the facts concerning the shameful absenteeism of Presidents in the better days of the republic, beginning with Washington.

When General Washington was inaugurated the seat of government was the city of New York. On August 11 1789 Washington left New York and went to Newport remaining absent about ten days.

On October 15 1789, just after the adjournment of Congress, he left New York for another trip to the East going as far as Portsmouth, New Hampshire where he was on October 1st. He reached New York on his return on November 13th, having thus been absent about a month.

On September 20 1790 we find Washington writing to Knox, the Secretary of War, from Mount Vernon on official business. His subsequent letters show that he remained at Mount Vernon continuously until November 14th. Congress had adjourned August 12th to meet at Philadelphia early in December, and Washington left the seat of government very soon after the adjournment and remained absent until a fortnight prior to the meeting of Congress. His letters show that it took ten to twelve days to communicate by mail with the seat of government. At Mount Vernon Washington was at a greater distance from the Capital than Grant would be if he spent all his time at San Francisco.

About March 20, 1790, Washington left Philadelphia, which had become the seat of government, on a trip to the South, apparently made on horseback. He was at Georgetown on March 29th, and at Mount Vernon down to April 13th. A letter written from there at that time shows that his letters from Philadelphia took four days to reach him. On May 7th he was at Charleston, on May 20th at Augusta, and at Mount Vernon, on his return, on June 13th. He writes of having traveled 1,700 miles with the same horses. He mentions in writing an official letter on June 13th that he had had no opportunity to write since he left Savannah, which was about May 11th. He also adds that all the letters sent to him between May 15th and May 30th failed to reach him, as he was off the lines of communication and it was not known where he was. He did not reach Philadelphia till early in July, the first letter from there being dated July 13th. From September 24th to October 15, 1791, he was again at Mount Vernon. He was thus absent in that year over four months. During the remaining years of his two terms his "absenteeism" was quite as "shameful."

Quite as notable also is the record of the "absenteeism" of John Adams. In the year 1798 he was at Quincy from Aug 14th to Nov. 10th. In 1799 he returned to Quincy March 29th, and remained there continuously until Sept 29th. He said he could administer the Government at Quincy quite as well as at Philadelphia. In 1800 he repaired to Quincy early in July, and remained till Oct 13th.

President Jefferson was quite as bad a "truant" and "loiterer." During every year of his Presidency he spent weeks and months continuously at his country seat at Monticello. His letters show that it took seven days for him to communicate with the seat of government. At Long Branch, which place he visits occasionally, Grant is in constant telegraphic communication with Washington, and within eight hours of the city by rail.

Thus the record shows that all the early Presidents were absent from the seat of government far more than Grant ever has been. And they were absent for weeks and months at a time, and no communication could reach them for many days. Grant's absences have invariably been short, never extending beyond a period of a few days.

The Times article says: "Washington was habitually absent from the seat of government, at a time too, when our infant nation was being launched upon its career, when the whole machinery of Government was to be created, when he was personally obliged to direct a thousand minute details, which have now become matters of routine; when he had to organize all the departments. While at the same time the country was surrounded by the dangers consequent upon the French revolution, by the cropping up of dissatisfaction with the Constitution in various portions of the country, by the agitation consequent upon Jay's treaty, and by manifold dangers from the Indians. His letters show how he directed all the matters from a distance, and yet no one ever ventured to suggest that the father of his country was recreant to his high trust, or sought his comfort upon his farm to the neglect of his public duties."

The truth is, this accusation against Grant is of itself beneath contempt, and would deserve no notice at all, were it not part of the general system of humbug and defamation which are at the bottom of the reform campaign.

Comparing Notes

The enemies of the present Administration are scattering broadcast over the land wholesale charges of corruption against President Grant and his subordinates in office. The Democratic press teems with slander. Democratic speakers reiterate the falsehoods, and every effort is made that partisan ingenuity can devise to poison the public mind against the administration of President Grant. Fortunately for the Republican party the character of the opposition is too well known by the people to make its charges effective. Every schoolboy knows the record of the Democratic party. The recent developments made in New York, where $30,000,000 were plundered from the city treasury by Democratic leaders, show the honest tendencies of the party that is now trying to cover its own rascalities by charging corruption on the party that was instrumental in cutting short its career of wholesale robbery.

Will our "liberal" friend and "rebel" enemies make a note of the following statements?

The present administration has lost a smaller per cent of the public funds, through the dishonesty of officials appointed since March 4, 1869, than any previous administration.

It has collected a larger per cent of the public revenue at a smaller per cent of cost than any administration since the days of Jackson.

It has brought to punishment a larger per cent of dishonest officials than any previous administration.

It is the first administration that has shown a desire to still further improve the civil service [illegible] which in time will bring into the [illegible] the very best men of the nation.

[illegible] its administration has been honest, capable, economical. Most searching investigations have failed to fix a single act of corruption on the President or his chief officials. From the heads of Departments to the humblest clerk the rule is official integrity, while dishonesty is the rare exception. If any one is simple-minded enough to believe that the Democratic party can make the Government perfection they must be ignorant of the past record of that party. If reforms are needed some purer party than the one that now sits in judgment on our shortcomings must bring them about. As well might we try to gather figs from the poisonous upas tree as to try to obtain an honest administration of affairs from the Democratic party. The people know this as well as they knew it in 1860, 1864 and 1868. They heard the same old charges of corruption raised then as they hear now. They returned their answer in overwhelming majorities in the past, as they will do the same in the future.

Although it is announced that the letters received in England from Dr Livingstone are pronounced genuine, there seems to have been, even before the publication of that singular second letter to the editor of the New York Herald, a strong impression that all was not right. Lord Winchelsea wrote to the London Times to inquire, unless rivers run up hill in Africa, what becomes of the tale which Mr Stanley has put into Dr Livingstone's mouth. He shows that the altitude of Lake Tanganyika is recorded as 1804 feet while that of the Albert Nyanza, into which it is said to empty through the river Lulaba, is recorded as 2488 feet. Mr Charles Beke replies that there have been errors in the measurements and gives computed corrections. Dr Livingstone would do well to come home in person and set at rest all these debates, which grow continually more heated, and seem gradually to be throwing discredit on the great explorer.

The opposition to Greeley in Virginia is growing rapidly. A correspondent writes: "I had no idea that the people would not obey the mandates of the party and go for Greeley no matter how distasteful he might be to them, but I am informed by prominent Republicans who have been actively engaged in canvassing the State that the country people are exceedingly bitter against Greeley, and swear that they will vote for Grant rather than for the man so long known as the arch enemy of the South."

Had Senator Kelly been here last spring he would have assured the Herald that the Dolly Varden ticket in this county was certain to win, just as he now assures that paper that Greeley's election is certain. Hebetude of understanding is the intellectual trait for which the Senator is chiefly distinguished. He never sees anything as it is, and therefore his confident statements to the Herald that Greeley will be elected is a strong proof that the opposite result will be realized.

The Religious Question in Germany

With regard to the religious question in Germany, the Provincial Correspondenz, a journalist product of the Prussian Home Ministry, prints a remarkable article, which deserves mention, since it indicates an intention shortly to proceed from words to blows, and attempts to vindicate the inactive and almost timid course hitherto pursued. Even the official organ confesses that nothing serious has as yet been done, a fact which has occasioned numerous loud complaints on the Liberal side, and as many and open sneers on the Ultramontane.

"Let not the Church imagine," says Count Eulenberg's organ, "that the reason it assumes is the true one prompting Ministerial inactivity, viz. unreadiness in our plan of action. The real cause rather is, that the Government has hitherto not desired any, has avoided a struggle with the Church, and has not, therefore, thought of framing a plan of action. All the words and deeds of the Government show that it has, in the first stages of the contest, confined its action exclusively to the repulse of clerical encroachments without engaging in attacks upon the position of the Church. It is only the most recent manifestation of open enmity evinced toward the German Empire by the Papal Curia which have brought home to the Ministry the absolute necessity of keeping in view the close interior Cumenian of the various attacks, and regulate its means of war accordingly. The Catholic journal (Germania) is right in remarking that nothing like bitter earnest has as yet been made by the Government. What may and must happen," the Correspondenz concludes in large type, "when it does come to bitter earnest, Government can hardly be assumed not to have already formed an opinion upon, and the next sessions of the German and Prussian Parliaments will presumably testify to the fact. True to Prussian tradition, the Government of our Emperor and King is still sincerely desirous that it may not come to bitter earnest, however the hope that the voices, even of true and tried Roman Catholics, warning to moderation may be admitted and accorded a hearing at Rome grows less and less from day to day."

Greeley by Hall

The Vermont Watchman seems to consider it a somewhat remarkable coincidence that in the fall of 1870 Mr Greeley was a candidate for Congress and was, of course, defeated and that, during the canvass A Oakey Hall, then Mayor of New York City, and now one of his most enthusiastic supporters, made a speech in which he thus characterized the present Presidential candidate of the Democratic party:

"He is feeble of purpose, tremulous in judgment, unstable and inconsistent in thought and deed, doing motiveless things, telling motiveless falsehoods, friendly with a man one moment and unfriendly the next, eccentric in dress, eccentric in eating and drinking, devoured by the worm of self consciousness, full of unaccountable idiosyncrasies and prejudices and awkward affectations."

Such is the picture which the Democratic Mayor of New York City in 1870 drew of Mr Greeley, not thinking him fit to be a representative in Congress, but now regarding him just the man to be President of these United States. Mr Greeley had not then told the public that he could not see any evidence of Mayor Hall's complicity in the great Tammany frauds, the disclosure of which last year startled the whole country. He has not yet seen any such evidence, and this may be one reason why His Honor now thinks so kindly of the man whom less than two years ago he denounced so sharply. The fact that the Tammany thieves with their gang of Democratic rowdies, bruisers and cut-throats, are so cordial in their support of the Democratic nominee is to say the least a very dark presumption against this reform canvass.

OREGON

S. W. Moss has presented the Hose Company at Oregon City with a "spankin" new trumpet.

Oregon City thieves are impudent fellows. One of them stole the Recorder's hat before his eyes the other day.

The Willamette Woolen Mills shipped twenty-six thousand dollars worth of goods of their manufacture on last Thursday.

The Annual Conference of the Oregon M. E. Church South [illegible] at Albany, Bishop McTyeire presiding.

Professor Arnold of Kentucky, who has accepted the Presidency of Corvallis College, arrived at that place on Monday.

David Shannon, of Marion county has a large field of white winter wheat which will yield an average of [illegible] bushels to the acre.

James [illegible] reports seven head of the horses recently stolen by Indians in the Crooked river country as having been recaptured.

And now comes Oregon City and proposes also to bridge the Wallamet at that place. A meeting was held and the ball started last week.

The road leading from Pioneer to Newport on the Yaquina is almost completed and the Indians from the Siletz Reservation are pushing the work forward.

Snelling, an Indian convict who escaped from prison at Walla Walla a few weeks since, surrendered himself at Salem a few days ago. He said he was sick and needed some one to take care of him.

Salem is going ahead with the project of building a bridge across the Wallamet river at that place. The company has filed articles of incorporation, with a capital stock of one hundred thousand dollars, and Rufus Mallory, W W [illegible]iper and W J Boothby as incorporators.

The new fire engine for Corvallis arrived there on Tuesday evening last. The machine is a Baltimore "gallery" engine, of the kind frequently styled "double deckers," and has sufficient room to allow eighty men to operate the brakes at once. It formerly belonged to Monumental Engine Co No 6 of San Francisco.

The [illegible] has the following: "A few days ago a little five year old daughter of Mr John McKinney, who resides three miles east of Halsey, ran against a pan of hot grease in the hands of her mother, the hot grease being precipitated over her person from the shoulder down one side of her person, badly burning her shoulder, breast and stomach. The mother seized the nearest object at hand, which proved to be a bottle of black ink, and proceeded to bathe the burns therewith. In less than fifteen minutes after applying the ink, the little sufferer stopped complaining, and in a short time the little girl was playing about as usual, suffering, apparently, no inconvenience from the accident. Verily, there is many a virtue in black ink. It is a great panacea."

THE TERRITORIES

James P Pray has been elected Chief of the Olympia Fire Department.

The Olympians were gladdened by a small sprinkle of rain on Wednesday morning last.

Philo Osgood, an Eastern capitalist, is expected to erect fifteen or twenty buildings in Seattle this season.

Gen Milroy, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, has retained Hon. T. M. Rhoads as assistant farmer on the Chehalis reservation.

Gardner Kellogg, for eight years Auditor of King county W. T., has resigned that position. D. T. Wheeler is appointed to fill the vacancy.

Samuel Dawson and A. L. McKean were tried found guilty of grand larceny, and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, at Seattle last week.

Both English and American troops are to be withdrawn from San Juan Island in about two months, let the decision as to ownership be what it may by the Emperor of Germany.

The new diamond fields in Arizona are alleged to be situated in the most desolate and God forsaken country on the face of the globe, where not even a wild Apache can subsist for any length of time.

The Intelligencer says: "One hundred and twenty six acres of land of the estate of F M Lampe were sold for about five dollars an acre lying between Duwamish river and Lake Washington, not far from Seattle."

From the Seattle Intelligencer: Messrs McNaught & Leary, at their sales last week, disposed of [illegible] lots near Olympia terminus for $500, 6 lots in McNaught's Addition to Seattle, for $401 and 20 acres of land on Lake Washington for $200.

[illegible] building was situated on the west side of [illegible] street between Taylor and Yamhill, in the [illegible] of the [illegible] known as the Court of [illegible]. By the time the companies were ready for [illegible] operations the house was one mass of flame [illegible] surrounding buildings were on fire [illegible] The Department turned their [illegible] the [illegible] to prevent the [illegible] spreading, and at the same time [illegible] progress the element on the burning [illegible] Twenty minutes was sufficient time for [illegible] the efforts of the Department [illegible]

When the al[illegible] first given several women who were [illegible] groped their way to the stair-case thro[illegible] thick blinding smoke, and effected [illegible] The fire had gained such headway b[illegible] alarm was given and the companies could [illegible] that nothing at all was saved. The [illegible] niture of all descriptions with which [illegible] was furnished, consisting of a piano [illegible] costly carpets and curtains, fell a prey to [illegible] devouring flames.

The cause of the fire is supposed to be [illegible] of an incendiary. When first seen, it [illegible] come from the rear, and spread almost [illegible] over and through the entire building. [illegible] smell of kerosene oil was detected which [illegible] to strengthen the conviction that some [illegible] set the building on fire, as no coal oil [illegible] about the house.

Mrs. Gallagher estimates her loss at ab[illegible] 600, for which she holds two policies [illegible] don, Liverpool and Globe Insurance C[illegible] $1 500 upon the house and $3,000 upon [illegible] ture and apparel. The rest of the inmat[illegible] their clothing, jewelry and trunks, a[illegible] them $80, $40 and $25 in money.

The house adjoi[illegible] north was damaged by fire and water [illegible] The building was occupied by Kate Ste[illegible] next house occupied by L M Smith, [illegible] probably $100 principally by water. No wind of any consequence was stirr[illegible] time, or else we should in all prob[illegible] called upon to chronicle an extensive [illegible] tion.

NEW DREDGER.—About ten days [illegible] plans and specifications for the new dr[illegible] operate on the lower Wallamet and [illegible] rivers were forwarded to the Secretar[illegible] for his inspection and approval. In [illegible] month official information is expected, [illegible] thority will be received for the commen[illegible] the work and proposals will be adve[illegible] The plans call for the construction of as [illegible] powerful a dredger as can at present be [illegible] the coast. In the drawing of the plans [illegible] of the best engineers in the United S[illegible] written for opinions and suggesti[illegible] number of the latest and most impro[illegible] were consulted. The boat will be [illegible] and 30 in width. It will be construc[illegible] most powerful substantial manner, [illegible] most durable wood. The "crane" wil[illegible] twice as long as the one now used [illegible] dredger which will enable the new boa[illegible] ate effectively at a depth of 35 feet. [illegible] a decided advantage, both in the levera[illegible] size and capacity of the "dipper." It [illegible] enable the dredger to work at a [illegible] stage of water. The new dredger [illegible] during a greater portion of the year, [illegible] present one is restricted in its work to [illegible] months or only when the stage of wate[illegible] mit. The boiler and engines to run th[illegible] machinery will be manufactured either [illegible] or San Francisco, and will correspond [illegible] manship and power with the other port[illegible] dredger. The machinery will be drive[illegible] engines of ten inch cylinder bore a[illegible] stroke of piston. The general accom[illegible] and appointments of the new boat will [illegible] and much superior to those of the old. [illegible] ber of dead lights will be ranged along [illegible] vals on each side of the hull, to admit [illegible] tion and several rooms—including [illegible] ers rooms, bunk rooms, etc, for the [illegible] dation of those who are employed on [illegible] to be constructed. All the rear port[illegible] boat, back of where the "crane" ope[illegible] be enclosed as a regular cabin. This w[illegible] an appearance much neater and more st[illegible] than is to be found in most crafts de[illegible] dredging purposes. On the front pa[illegible] cabin will be built a pilot house, which [illegible] as the bed room and quarters of any [illegible] may be temporarily on board for a few [illegible] time to superintend the work.

CITY.

EXTENSIVE FIRE.—On Friday morning, about half-past 2 o'clock, when deep slumber had settled over the city, the discordant clangor of the fire-bells gave token that the dreadful element was discovered in some quarter. Those who heard the ominous notes of danger arose from their beds and crowded to doors and windows to see where the fire had commenced its destructive work. A glance was sufficient to reveal the fact that a building was in flames, and that, too, in the very heart of the city. The darkness of the cloudy canopy was illuminated by a red glare of light, and even the flames could be discovered leaping and devouring some ill-fated building. Three minutes after the first warning the fire companies were out of their respective engine-houses and all hastening with celerity toward the scene. It was soon discovered that the house on fire belonged to Mrs. Bridget Gallagher, a well-known courtesan of the city. The building was situated on the west side of Second street, between Taylor and Yamhill, in the center of the precinct known as the "Court of Death." By the time the companies were ready for effective operations the house was one mass of flames, and the surrounding buildings were on fire in many places. The Department turned their hose on the adjacent houses to prevent the fire from spreading, and at the same time fought the progress of the element on the burning building. Twenty minutes was sufficient time for the fire to succumb to the efforts of the Department.

At the time the fire broke out the building contained five women, who, suddenly aroused, had only time to escape and leave all their effects, dresses, jewelry, etc., to be destroyed. In the haste, panic and confusion, a little son of Mrs. Gallagher came near perishing in the flames before he could be rescued. When the alarm was first given several women who were up stairs groped their way to the stair-case through the thick, blinding smoke, and effected an escape. The fire had gained such headway before the alarm was given and the companies could arrive, that nothing at all was saved. The costly furniture of all descriptions with which the house was furnished, consisting of a piano, paintings, costly carpets and curtains, fell a prey to the devouring flames.

The cause of the fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. When first seen, it seemed to come from the rear, and spread almost instantly over and through the entire building. A strong smell of kerosene oil was detected which seemed to strengthen the conviction that some one had set the building on fire; as no coal oil was used about the house.

Mrs. Gallagher estimates her loss at about $8,000, for which she holds two policies in the London, Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company, $1,500 upon the house and $3,000 upon the furniture and apparel. The rest of the inmates lost all their clothing, jewelry and trunks, and among them $50, $40 and $25 in money.

The loss to the adjacent buildings was but slight in comparison. The house adjoining, just north, was damaged by fire and water about $300. The building was occupied by Kate Steers. The next house occupied by L. M. Smith, damaged probably $100; principally by water. A small paint shop just south, owned by C. C. Bauer, sustained damages to the extent of $50, by the upsetting of paints, etc. The house occupied by Mr. Mercier on Taylor Street was damaged $75. There was no insurance on any of these buildings.

No wind of any consequence was stirring at the time, or else we should in all probability be called upon to chronicle an extensive conflagration.

NEW DREDGER.—About ten days ago the plans and specifications for the new dredger, to operate on the lower Wallamet and Columbia rivers, were forwarded to the Secretary of War for his inspection and approval. In about one month official information is expected, when authority will be received for the commencement of the work, and proposals will be advertised for. The plans call for the construction of as large and powerful a dredger as can at present be found on the coast. In the drawing of the plans a number of the best engineers in the United States were written to for opinions and suggestions, and a number of the latest and most improved models were consulted. The boat will be 85 feet long and 30 in width. It will be constructed in the most powerful, substantial manner, and of the best durable wood. The "crane" will be nearly 44 as long as the one now used on the old dredger, which will enable the new boat to operate effectively at a depth of 35 feet. This will be a decided advantage, both in the leverage and the size and capacity of the "dipper." It will also enable the dredger to work at a much higher stage of water. The new dredger can operate during a greater portion of the year, while the present one is restricted in its work to about six months, or only when the stage of water will admit. The boiler and engines to run the required machinery will be manufactured either in this city or San Francisco, and will correspond in workmanship and power with the other portions of the dredger. The machinery will be driven by double engines, of ten-inch cylinder bore and two feet stroke of piston. The general accommodations and appointments of the new boat will be larger and much superior to those of the old. A number of dead-lights will be ranged along at intervals on each side of the hull, to admit of free ventilation, and several rooms—including a kitchen, store-rooms, bunk-rooms, etc., for the accommodation of those who are employed on board—are to be constructed. All the rear portion of the boat, back of where the "crane" operates, will be enclosed as a regular cabin. This will impart an appearance much neater and more steamer-like than is to be found in most crafts designed for dredging purposes. On the front part of the cabin will be built a pilot-house, which will serve as the bed-room and quarters of any officer who may be temporarily on board for a few days at a time to superintend the work.

WHAT IS NEEDED.—The following petition to the Legislature is being circulated in the city and throughout the county, among the taxpayers, by Mr. Jacob Stitzel:

The undersigned petitioners, taxpayers of the State of Oregon, represent that that in their opinion the best interests of said State will be materially advanced in every respect, and the early settlement thereof promoted by the establishing and maintaining of a State Board of Immigration, and that an appropriation of such sum as may be deemed expedient to carry out the objects of said Board, be made out of the State Treasury, to be expended in such manner as may be by law provided, in assisting and encouraging immigration to this State from the older States and other countries.

The above petition is being numerously signed by the heaviest taxpayers of the city, and the most prominent and influential business men. The good results to follow from the establishment of such a Board are too numerous to specify, and too apparent to require explanation. Every year many persons leave the Eastern, Middle, and Western States with the object of settling permanently in Oregon. But on their arrival in San Francisco, they are induced to turn aside and become residents of California, all on account of the influence exerted by and through a systematic and efficient Immigration Board, which has long been one of the permanent establishments of that State. Oregon had some two years ago such a board, but in consequence of receiving no Legislative countenance nor support, it failed. Let it not be said that the present effort to establish a new and better arranged Board, in the manner of its operations and the extent of its facilities, meet with a similar fate.

We are informed that a number of petitions like the above will be sent to every county in the State, to some prominent and influential person, who will circulate the same for signatures. It is a right move in the right direction, and should meet the hearty, undivided co-operation of every man and woman in Oregon. It is a common interest which belongs to the State.

SNAG BOAT.—The snag-boat which was built last September, under the superintendence of Maj. Robert, for removing snags and other obstructions along the channel of the Upper Wallamet, commenced operations last week. This boat is the only one of the kind in the State. It is 100 feet in length, and has all the required appliances in the way of machinery, etc., to raise any snag or remove the most serious obstructions. A large derrick, powerfully constructed, projects some distance over the bow of the boat, and with the aid of a strong capstan, arranged with ropes, tackles etc., an immense leverage can be obtained. The capstan is of an improved style, and rather complicated in its mode of operations. By turning the shaft one direction a great power can be acquired, and by reversing the movement a power three times greater can be gained. No steam engine is employed, but by means of this powerful capstan several men can operate very successfully in tearing out logs and snags. The snag boat began last week at a point above Salem known as Eola Slough. After clearing out the channel at that place the boat will descend to Bridlesman's Bend, and from there to other points where the channel may require attention. Before the fall rains commence, most, if not all, the obstructions to the uninterrupted navigation of the Upper Wallamet will be removed.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT.—The specifications for the project of the improvement of the Upper Columbia River, and the removal of obstructions to navigation, have been completed by Major Roberts, and were forwarded to Washington yesterday. It will be remembered that an appropriation of $50,000 has lately been made by Congress for this purpose. Immediately on the examination of the estimates, etc., and approval of the same by the authorities, proposals will be let for contracts. The intention is to commence first at John Day's Rock. The contract will require that this rock shall be removed to a depth of seven feet below low water mark, so that boats drawing six feet can pass with safety. The next improvements will be made at Devil's Bend, where ten large rocks, which have long been serious obstructions to navigation, will be removed. The remaining portion of the appropriation, which will be about $15,000, will be expended at Umatilla Rapids. The amount of the appropriation, although it may appear small in proportion to the character and extent of the necessary improvements to be made to the channel of the Columbia, will, when judiciously applied, remove many of the more serious obstructions.

SAILED.—The steamship John L. Stephens sailed from this port last evening for San Francisco. The following passengers took their departure: L Fox, Z W Burnham, Miss Humason, Mrs D M French and infant, Mrs J J Gardiner, L Saunders, M S Burrell, J J Gardiner, J Lowenberg, T E Logan, James Smith, Mrs Captain W L Dall, Miss Carrie Brown, J C Thompson, Mrs Prior and child, C S King and wife, W H Hurlburt, Chas Fishel, wife and servant; John Murphy and wife, Gov E S Salomon, C F Brown, Mrs Nevil and daughter, Charles E Noble, Mrs A R Taylor, C Prag, Sam L Brooks and wife, Miss Bettinger, Mrs Colby, Miss H Hambly, S Wolf, Mr Pottenger, J H Dall, Jr, W Breyman, B Brenner, Isaac Lightner, Mrs M Baum, two infants and servant; Levi Stimpson, Mrs Mary Mead, A S Miller, wife and son; J P Goodhue and wife, Mr Griswold, Mrs Loenberg, boy and sister; Charles Bartlett and wife, George L Andrews, Mrs Kelly and child, B F Whistler and wife, W, F & Co's messenger, and 25 in the steerage.

CAPTURED.—Sheriff McAuliff, of Walla Walla, arrived in this city yesterday evening from Salem, having in custody an Indian named Snelling. About the first or second week of July, while Sheriff McAuliff was in this city, in charge of two convicts who were on the way to Olympia, Snelling and a man named Schaffer effected their escape from the jail in Walla Walla, where they were both confined—the former for grand larceny, and the latter for robbing a monte bank. The escape was made on the night of July 8th. Nothing was heard of the escaped prisoners for some time, until McAuliff learned by some means that Snelling was at Salem. He telegraphed to Sheriff Scott immediately to arrest the Indian. This was done, and McAuliff came down and took charge of him. The Indian was serving out a sentence of three years, and had but ten months to stay when he escaped. He will be taken up the river to-day.

CHAMPIONS OF THE RED CROSS.—Several weeks ago a subordinate division of this excellent organization was instituted in East Portland. Much strong opposition was encountered, and therefore their Encampment is somewhat small; but they have obtained a reliable, responsible, and, what is better than either, a good working membership. They meet in Odd Fellow's Hall, the finest in the place, and their prospects for success compare favorably with any like institution. The following is a list of their officers: E. C., U. Hassell; G. C., Mrs. A. M. Harrison; J. C., Miss A. Cornelius; W. Secretary, E. P. Smith; W. Treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Buchanan; G. of H., George A. Buchanan; W. Chaplain, Thomas Miller; M. of C., Miss O. Bailey; F. S., Miss S. Bailey; F. G., George W. Clarke; R. S., S. B. Woolpert; O. R. C., Alex. Soller; Impostor, Miss M. Clarke; Victim, M. E. Oller; O. G., James Bruce.

THAT MEETING.—The Herald states that there were present at the Greeley ward meeting, on Thursday evening, 150 persons, and that intense enthusiasm prevailed. The account is correct, with the exception that but 25 persons were present, instead of 150, two of whom were Republicans who went merely to see the failure; that a number of the persons did not live in the ward, including the presiding officer and the speakers (there were but two); that but 13 individuals signed the roll; and that, instead of enthusiasm, it was a difficult matter to get any one present to serve as Chairman or to address the meeting. With these slight corrections, the Herald's account was strictly true.

NEW CHURCH.—We were shown, this week, the plans for the new church to be erected, immediately, at Astoria. Though of small dimensions (26x50) it will be, in its architecture, quite an ornament to that growing town. We learn that the site has been already graded and prepared to lay the foundation, which will be done soon. The edifice will no doubt be completed before the rainy season sets in. So says the Catholic Sentinel.

EDWARD JAMES.—This bark arrived at port last evening in tow of the Merrimac. She brings 200 Chinese passengers and merchandise. Owing to the lateness of the hour when the vessel reached the wharf, none of the passengers were allowed to come on shore. This morning the passengers will be discharged and the baggage undergo the customary examination of the officers.

GRANT AND WILSON CLUB.—A grand mass meeting will be held at the Court House in this city on Saturday evening, 24th inst., the object of which is to organize a Grant and Wilson Club and prepare to enter more effectively into the coming campaign. Every friend of the true cause is invited and expected to be present on the occasion. Read the call in another column.

CLOSED.—The case of Barclay vs. Goodale was concluded late last evening, after having consumed two days in its trial. The evidence closed and the argument of counsel was in progress at the adjournment of Court. The matter will be submitted to the jury to-day.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—The United States District Court will convene on Monday morning. The trial of the persons charged with the recent stage robbery will be the first case on the docket.

INSTITUTED.—Cornelius Lodge I. O. O. F. will be instituted on the evening of the 20th inst., at Cornelius. Members from the several lodges of this city are cordially invited to attend.

COMMENCED.—The old dredger, which has been undergoing various repairs, resumed work on last Saturday. Work will be prosecuted as long as the stage of water will allow.

SOON OUT.—The report of Adjutant General Dennison, now in the hands of the printers at Salem, will be out in a few days.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

There is no necessity of sending to San Francisco for a billiard table or anything that is used in a billiard room, as Mr. John S. Neilson, Morrison street, between Third and Fourth, devotes his whole attention to the business, and those who call can depend on getting good work. See advertisement.

SPOTTED LIKE DOMINOES.—The teeth soon become speckled if every defilement is not removed from them every twenty-four hours. To do this effectually there is nothing like Sozodont. It literally renders the enamel impervious and indestructible. 17 Medicinal Poisons on the Wane.

The patriarchs took no mercury, no bismuth, no [illegible] ide of potassium, no iodine, no strychnine, no quinine. Happy old gentlemen, they did not even know of the existence of these "specifics," and yet they lived until it seemed that Death had forgotten them. Their medicines were herbs and roots. They have left this fact on record, and the world seems to be now taking note of it and returning to the first principles of medication. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the purest and most efficacious vegetable restorative of the day, is also the most popular. Thousands of persons who only a few years ago believed implicitly in all the poisons which figure in the pharmacopeia, now pronounce this palatable tonic and alterative an all-sufficient remedy for dyspepsia, nervous debility, constipation, bilious complaints, headache, intermittent fevers, and all the ordinary disturbances of the stomach, the liver, the discharging organs and the brain. The time is not far distant when most of the powerful and venomous drugs now so recklessly administered by practitioners of the "heroic" school, in cases that might easily be controlled by milder treatment, will be utterly discarded by all philosophical physicians. As it is, the thinking public, who are generally ahead of the professionals, have already put the dangerous preparations aside and adopted Hostetter's Bitters in their stead as a safe and excellent household medicine, adapted to almost every ailment except the organic and deadly contagious diseases. For more than twenty years this famous restorative and preventive has been annually strengthening its hold upon the public confidence and it now takes the lead of every advertised medicine manufactured in this country.

FINE CUT CAVENDISH—THE BEST IN MARKET. Go to STONE'S.

Gazetted.

The type-setter stands before his case,
The gas burns low and the night is deep;
And over the staggering chimney stacks
Darkness and shadows creep,
And the city is lost in sleep.

The type-setter stands there gaunt and gray,
With dim old eyes and a weary brain;
And he sings a cadence solemn and low,
To the beat of the bitter rain
On the rattling casement and pane.

Tremble the rafters, roof and floors
As he fingers the types in his desolate way
And he hears the music faintly borne
From the theater over the way,
At some strange old tragedy play.

The old man sings, and tremble the floors
With the bellowing engine down below,
And the crash of the whirlwind axle-bars,
And the thunders that from them grow,
Echoing to and fro.

As he fingers the types (in his desolate way)
He sets them up with a heavy lead;
And a marge of black encircles his work—
The name of the man just dead,
A soul in the battle sped.

And he sighs as he thinks, this man so gray,
Winking and blinking before his case,
How, out in the dark and desolate night,
Some form of womanly grace
Is weeping upon her face.

Lower and lower the gas lights burn,
And grow the shadows dusky and gray
And the storm is hushed and the music's swells
And the theater over the way,
And finished the tragedy play.

And the type-setter wipes his dim old eyes;
The types no more with his fingers move;
And he smiles that, while setting the names below,
The angel, in tender love,
Were setting it up above.

Eating Crow.

AN AMUSING ACCOUNT OF THE ORIGIN OF THE TERM.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

CHAPTER I.

Near the camp of the old Pennsylvania Bucktail Regiment, in Virginia, early in the war, lived an old aristocratic, exclusive and pompous Virginian, in true baronial style. His mansion of very old age, was made of imported brick, his chimneys were tall and massive, and the rooms were large and pleasant. The chief attraction of the old place, however, were the grounds that surrounded the mansion. Large luxuriant shade and the underbrush in portions of the grounds afforded shelter for rabbits and other small game. There were walks, and orchards, and the whole bore such a scene of general peacefulness and repose that it was no wonder that the wild Bucktails were charmed with the prospect, and anxious to penetrate into a spot which gave such promise of enjoyment.

The Bucktails were not always the most tractable soldiers. They came from the stepping-off place—the wilderness of Pennsylvania—McKean, Potter, Forest and Tioga counties—and they obtained their name, which clung to them during the whole war, through a fancy of Colonel Kane, brother of the Arctic explorer, who became their commander. He recruited the regiment in the early days of 1861 (beginning on the day of the arrival of the news of the fall of Sumter), from backwoodsmen who were famous marksmen. They were all deer-hunters, and as a designation each man was furnished with the tail of a buck by Colonel Kane, and when they marched from Camp Curtin with the bucktails in their caps it was a novel sight. Colonel Charles J. Biddle, of Philadelphia, was made the Colonel, and Colonel Kane the Lieutenant Colonel of the regiment—both men noted for their short, attenuated forms. Neither was scarcely more than five feet high, and their combined weight was less than 220 pounds.

It may readily be guessed that these soldiers had little respect for Virginia aristocracy, and the tent-poles had hardly got settled in the ground before a noted rider named —well, Smith—shouldered his deer-killer and started out on a little expedition. He was a Sergeant, and of immense size, and went by the name of the "Big Sergeant." He made a straight march for the old Virginian's manor. Now, the old gentleman had many pets about the grounds, and among them a crow which he valued very highly. He also had tame doves, rabbits, etc. The Sergeant climbed the stone wall and dropped himself and gun on the inside of the grounds. The first thing his eye struck was the tame crow, which unconcernedly flew near him, alighted on a limb, and began to caw at him. The Sergeant put his rifle to his shoulder and banged away, and Mr. Crow fell fluttering to the ground. The soldier reloaded his gun, leaned it against the wall, and went to get his game.

Instantly there came running from the house, in a high state of excitement, the old Virginian, and when he saw that his pet crow had been killed his rage knew no bounds. He asked for the Sergeant's gun, and swearing that he wouldn't have given the crow for the whole Yankee army, vowed that he would blow the soldier's brains out. With this he brought the piece to a cock and glanced along the barrel. The Sergeant begged for his life and the Virginian swore he would take it.

The Virginian thought of a compromise, and with a look of amusement and rage, told the Sergeant that he must eat the raw crow. In vain the other protested; the Virginian insisted on the price of his adversary's life. So the Sergeant pulled off the feathers and began to eat and gag.

"How do you like crow?" hissed the Virginian through his teeth.

The only answer the other gave was to beg to be let off. He was sorry he had shot the crow; didn't know that it was a tame one, he wouldn't do such a thing again. Finally the old man took the gun from its aim and told the sergeant he needn't eat any more. His heart full of joy, the soldier threw the bird upon the ground and said:

"Well I kin eat crow, but I don't like it."

The story might stop here if it was only to show the origin of the phrase, but the rest of it is best.

CHAPTER II.

The old Virginian, after surveying his dead pet for an instant in a sorrowful manner, returned the gun and started for his mansion. The other quickly brought his piece to his shoulder and called out:

"Hold on here, Mister."

"What do you want?" asked the other, as he turned and beheld a bead drawn on him.

"I'd like to have you eat the rest of this crow."

The old man fumed and swore, and tore about in a frantic manner, saying he'd be d—d if he would, and he didn't want any of the young man's jokes. The cocking of the gun, and the assurance on the part of the soldier that he would certainly put a ball through the old man's shoulder unless he complied with the demand, induced the Virginian to retrace his steps. "Now," said the sergeant, "I want you to eat the rest of that crow, and no nonsense."

A punch of the rifle on the shoulder of the old man roused him to a quick sense of his position, and picking up the crow he endeavored to bite it. He grew pale, the perspiration stood upon his face, he trembled like a terrier, his mouth watered, his eyes filled, he gagged, and it seemed a physical impossibility to touch the crow. The Sergeant, however, compelled him to take a bite, and it was the only one he did take, for his breakfast came up so rapidly to protest against crow that the soldier relented and told him to "git" and never trouble a Bucktail again.

Here would seem to be another proper place to end this story, but there is still another chapter.

CHAPTER III.

The next day the old Virginian, smarting under the indignities he had suffered, in not only having his pet crow killed, but being compelled to eat a portion of it, went to the headquarters of the Bucktails and made complaint to the Colonel against the big Sergeant. The Colonel at once sent an Orderly for Sergeant Smith, rightly supposing he must be the person referred to. He obeyed the summons at once. He pushed the door of the tent aside and entered his presence. Snapping heels together and standing erect in the position of "attention" he brought his right hand quickly to the visor of his military cap, and gave the customary salute to his Colonel.

"Sergeant," said his commander very gravely, "do you know that gentleman?" pointing to the old Virginian.

"Yes, sir," promptly answered the other.

"How did you become acquainted with him, Sergeant?"

"We dined together yesterday, sir," promptly answered the culprit.

The roar of laughter which followed this reply need not be described, nor the manner in which even the old Virginian joined. The Sergeant was sent back to his quarters, and the interview between the old aristocrat and the Colonel ended by an invitation being extended to the latter to dine the next day at the old mansion.

The Lottery and Lunatics.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

The State of Nevada having authorized the drawing of a lottery for the benefit of her lunatics, all the outside lunatics are expected to contribute something in that behalf. Lunatic asylums are generally erected by a tax on the property of the State. But Nevada proposes a new plan. If all the people who want to get something for nothing, or are just a little cracked on other matters, will give a lift, the inside lunatics will be cared for. The lunatic asylum having been secured, a future Legislature might authorize another lottery in behalf of a penitentiary, and if an appeal were successfully made to all who ought to have the benefit of such an institution, one of very large dimensions would be secured.

The lottery business was pushed in California under a specious plea which never ought to have been tolerated for an hour. There are very few right minded people here who have not at one time or another been ashamed of the whole business. But it was reserved for Nevada to find out what a handy thing a lottery might be with which to provide for crazy people.

At Ottawa, Ills., an old-time toper named Stack died from a draught of bed-bug poison which he had discovered hidden in a bottle under the jail steps. He drank quickly and heartily, not finding a free bottle every day.

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

ADOPTED BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN NATIONAL CONVENTION AT PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 5, 1872.

The Republican Party of the United States, assembled in National Convention in the city of Philadelphia on the 5th and 6th days of June, 1872, again declares its faith, appeals to its history and announces its position upon the questions before the country.

1. During the eleven years of its ascendancy it has accepted with grand courage the solemn duties of the time. It has suppressed a gigantic rebellion, emancipated four millions of slaves, decreed the equal citizenship of all and established universal suffrage. Exhibiting unparalleled magnanimity, it criminally punished no man for political offenses, and warmly welcomed all who proved their loyalty by obeying the laws and dealing justly with their neighbors. It has initiated a new policy toward the Indians. The Pacific Railroad and similar vast enterprises have been generously aided and successfully conducted, the public lands freely given to actual settlers, immigration protected and encouraged, and a full acknowledgment of the rights of naturalized citizens secured from European powers. In the form of National currency it has provided for the National credit, maintained it under the most extraordinary burdens, and new bonds negotiated at lower rates of interest. The revenues have been carefully collected and honestly applied. Despite the annual large reductions of the rates of taxation, the public debt has been reduced during U. S. Grant's Presidency at the rate of $100,000,000 per year. A great financial crisis has been avoided and peace and plenty prevail throughout the land. Menacing foreign difficulties have been peacefully and honorably compromised, and the honor and power of the Nation kept in high position throughout the world. This glorious record of the past is the party's best pledge for the future, and we believe that the people will not entrust the government to any party or combination of men composed of those who chiefly have resisted every step in this beneficial progress.

2. Complete liberty and exact equality in the enjoyment of all civil, political and public rights should be established and effectually maintained throughout the Union by efficient and appropriate State and Federal legislation. Neither law nor its administration should admit of any discrimination in respect to citizens by reason of race, creed, color, or previous condition of servitude.

3. The recent amendments to the National Constitution should be cordially sustained because they are right, not merely tolerated because they are law, and should be carried out according to their spirit by appropriate legislation, the enforcement of which can be safely trusted only to the party that secured those amendments.

4. The National Government seeks to maintain an honorable peace with all nations, protecting its citizens everywhere, and sympathizing with all peoples who strive for greater liberty.

5. Any system of civil service under which the subordinate positions of the Government are considered rewards for mere party zeal, is fatally demoralizing, and we therefore favor a reform of the system, by a law which shall abolish the evils of patronage and make honesty, efficiency and fidelity the essential qualifications for public position, without practically creating a lifetenure of office.

6. We are opposed to further grants of public lands to corporations and monopolists, and demand that the National domain be set apart for free settlement by the people.

7. The annual revenue, after paying current debts, should furnish a moderate balance for the reduction of the principal of the public debt, and except so much as may be derived from a tax on tobacco and liquors, be raised by duties on importations, which should be adjusted to aid in securing remunerative wages to laborers, and to promote the industries and growth and prosperity of the whole country.

8. We hold in undying honor the soldiers and sailors whose valor saved the Union. Their pensions are a sacred debt of the nation, and the widows and orphans of those who died for the country are entitled to the care of a generous and grateful people. We favor such additional legislation as will extend the bounty of the Government to all our soldiers and sailors who were honorably discharged, and who in the line of duty became disabled, without regard to length of service or the cause of such discharge.

9. The doctrine of Great Britain and other European powers concerning allegiance, "once a subject always a subject," having at last, through the efforts of the Republican party, been abandoned, and the American idea of the right of an individual to transfer his allegiance having been accepted by European nations, it is the duty of our Government to guard with jealous care the rights of adopted citizens against the assumption of unauthorized claims by their former Government, and we urge a continued and careful encouragement and protection to voluntary emigration.

10. The franking privilege ought to be abolished and a way proposed for reductions in the rates of postage.

11. Among the questions which press for attention is that which concerns the relations of capital and labor, and the Republican party recognize the duty of shaping legislation so as to secure a full protection and ample field for capital, and for labor which creates capital, the largest opportunities and a just share of the mutual profits of these two great servants of civilization.

12. We hold that Congress and the President have only fulfilled an important duty in their measures for the suppression of violent and treasonable organizations in certain lately rebellious regions and for the protection of the ballot, and therefore they are entitled to the thanks of the Nation.

13. We denounce the repudiation of public debts, in any form or disguise, as a national crime. We witness with pride the reduction of the principal of that debt, and of the rates of interest upon the balance, and confidently expect that our excellent national currency will be perfected by a speedy resumption to specie payment.

14. The Republican party is mindful of its obligations to the loyal women of America for their noble devotion to the cause of freedom, their application for admission to further usefulness is received with satisfaction; and the honest demands of any class of citizens for additional rights should be treated with respectful consideration.

15. We heartily approve of the action of Congress in granting amnesty to those engaged in the rebellion, and rejoice in the growth of peace and fraternal feeling throughout the land.

16. The Republican party proposes to respect all rights reserved by the people to themselves, as carefully as the powers delegated by them to the State and Territorial governments. It disapproves of asserting constitutional laws for the purpose of removing evils by the interference with rights not surrendered by the people to either the State or National Government.

17. It is the duty of the General Government to adopt such measures as will tend to encourage American commerce and ship-building.

18. We believe that the modest patriotism, the earnest purpose, sound judgment, practical wisdom, incorruptible integrity and illustrious services of U. S. Grant have commended him to the heart of the American people, and with him at our head we start to-day on a new march to victory.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it is too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary—some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in dull times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many sales I otherwise would have lost."
